

Leaking toilet? How a small leak can cost you upwards of $100,000

Most homeowners feel like they have a never-ending to-do list when it comes to maintaining their home and property. With so many daily chores to take care of, along with regular upkeep and repairs, a small toilet leak may find itself low on your priority list. However, a small leak can quickly become a big problem. Water damage remains the leading cause of Canadian home insurance claims¹, and any sign of a toilet malfunction or leak should be addressed right away.

Learn more at www.otipinsurance.com/article118

